

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS
Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellowships
Institute of Contemporary History (NOVA University of Lisbon, Portugal)
Host institution - Digital Humanities

The Institute of Contemporary History (IHC), a Portuguese leading research center in modern and contemporary history, welcomes applications for Marie Curie Fellowships, acting as host institution, from researchers interested in developing their studies of the past using digital humanities' methods. We are particularly interested in scholars with the ability to develop research using methods of spatial analysis, network analysis and/or linked open data. Despite the main chronological focus of the IHC's activities, we are also open to research projects covering long-term analyses and the development of methodologies for the study and dissemination of cultural heritage.

The IHC was graded as “excellent” in the last international FCT assessment and develops its activity with an interdisciplinary approach, covering a wide range of topics which concern the conceptualisation, contextualisation and interpretation of the historical reality for the period between the French Revolution and the present time. In 2019, we will launch the first Portuguese Digital Humanities Lab, supporting both research and outreach activities.

Working at the IHC means to be part of a creative, collaborative, and publicly engaged environment that gathers more than 300 researchers. While conducting your own research project, you will also integrate a research group and may also choose a cross-cutting thematic line. As a modern and contemporary history research unit working on a broad range of topics, we regularly collaborate with the media, museums, archives, city councils, and high schools.

We welcome applications in the category of Individual Fellowships, both EF – European Fellowships and GF – Global Fellowships.

Applicants should send the following documents and information:

1. A work plan (written in English, according to the guidelines provided in the online form);
2. A detailed Curriculum vitae;
3. One copy of a relevant publication.

The Marie Skłodowska-Curie Individual Fellowships are available for experienced researchers, of any nationality, who must have, at the date of the call's deadline, a doctoral degree or at least four years of full time equivalent research experience.

Eligible candidates must comply with MSCA mobility rules:

- European Fellowships: the researcher cannot have resided or carried out his/her main activity (work, studies, etc.) in the country of the beneficiary for more than 12 months in the three years immediately before the call deadline;
- Global Fellowships (includes a research period in a Third Country, followed by a reintegration period at the Host Institution): the researcher cannot have resided or carried out his/her main activity (work, studies, etc.) in the Third Country where the outgoing phase takes place for more than 12 months in the three years immediately before the call deadline.
