

Travel and Transports through Time 2018

Data and Methodologies to Model the Movement of Goods in Roman times

10 September | Lisbon, NOVA FCSH
ID Building, Room 0.06

Programme

Welcome

10:00 - Colin Adams (Univ. Liverpool) “Trade and Transport in Roman Egypt”

10:45 - Pascal Arnaud (Univ. Lyon 2) “Roman Sea Transport”

Coffee break

11:45 - Cèsar Carreras (Univ. Aut. of Barcelona) “Measuring cost and time in Roman Transport”

12:30 - Toon Bongers (Ghent Univ.) “Selecting Past Navigable Rivers: Processes, Problems and Pathways”

Lunch

16:00 - Philip Verhagen (VU Amsterdam) “Reconstructing local transport networks in the Dutch Roman limes using least-cost paths and networks analysis techniques”

16:45 - Scott Arcenas (Univ. Stanford) “Modeling Transportation in the Roman Empire”

17:30 - Xavier Rubio-Campillo (Univ. of Edimburg) “A data science framework to infer long-range trade routes”

18:15 - Pau de Soto (Univ. Nova of Lisbon) “The Roman Transport in the Iberian Peninsula”

19:00 - Final Conclusions and debate

